

Louis Jacobson

The best D.C. photography exhibits and photographic images of 2019

Louis Jacobson

Dec 24, 2019

By Louis Jacobson

Here's a look at the five best photography exhibits, and the five best single photographs, in the Washington, D.C., museum and gallery scene in 2009. I reviewed these shows in my capacity as photography critic for Washington City Paper.

BEST EXHIBITS

2. Sarah Hood Salomon at Multiple Exposures Gallery.

Sarah Hood Salomon

Salomon creates delicate, sepia-toned images of woodlands, frequently with slight camera movement at the time of exposure. The resulting portrayals of silver-trunked trees and intricate brambles are ethereal, even ghostly — realistic, but dreamlike.